

Eike Karola Velten is a Fellow at Ecologic Institute in the field of climate and energy. Her research interests encompass climate change mitigation options, in particular the decarbonization of the energy system through the expansion of renewable energies and improved energy efficiency, as well as carbon markets and benchmarking.